

VOL. 8 | MARCH 2022

STIRLING-RAWDON PUBLIC LIBRARY'S MONTHLY NEWSLETTER

Library Update

March is such a promising month! While we will certainly continue to experience winter weather, spring really is just around the corner.

Unfortunately, our elevator renovations are currently at a standstill while they wait on a required part. We understand that some of our patrons require the use of the elevator to access our department on the second floor and we sincerely apologize for the inconvenience. Please let us know if we can assist you in any way.

While our drop box is available 24/7, we are now accepting your returns at the circulation desks once again. Feel free to bring your returned items to the desk to be checked in prior to browsing for additional items.

Finally, please take a moment to look through our 2021 Annual Report. A digital copy of the report can be found on our Facebook page or on the Library Board page of the library's website. If you prefer to flip through a printed copy, one will be available to look through at the main circulation desk for the next few weeks and an emailed copy can also be provided upon request. While library life is still slower than we are use to, our statistics shown in the Annual Report indicate that through the second full year of the pandemic, our patrons certainly stayed committed to reading and taking part in the programming we offered!

Somehow I've lucked out and have an 8yo who thinks secretly reading under the covers past her bedtime is an act of rebellion, and it hasn't yet occurred to her that her flashlights never seem to run out of batteries.

SEED LIBRARY

Now Open!

What is a seed library? We've been collecting seeds from local growers to share with everyone. Drop into the library and "borrow" some seeds. Plant them in your gardens and then after the growing season, harvest some of the seeds and return them to us to keep our seed library stocked and available to the community. Available any time the library is open.
